Reflection for Sunday 1st September 2024 Fourteenth Sunday After Trinity

On our visits into Leicester these days, we are treated to an interesting variety of costumes – Sikh turbans, colourful Hindu saris, more sombre Muslim dress for women and men, occasional bright African outfits; and in Church, the large Eritrean congregation dressed in white, or the Orthodox clergy in their colourful vestments. What we wear shows who we are and what we believe.

I once had a conversation with a prosperous business man who was the sole importer of ornamental feathers (for hats etc) into Britain. As a strict Jew, he would not turn a light switch on or off on the Sabbath, nor use a revolving door, nor drive a car. I asked about getting to the Synagogue. He said he would not buy a house if it was not within walking distance. His inspiration is in the sort of passage from Deuteronomy we are reading today.

The statutes and ordinances of Jewish custom and tradition have been immensely powerful for centuries in holding together the Jewish community, and they still are – as such customs are for communities everywhere. The fact that in our western Christian community we have very largely lost the customs which identify us is perhaps a matter for regret, and certainly we have become very weak.

Jesus (like Topol in the “Fiddler on the Roof”) found tradition oppressive, particularly when it was used to condemn others or justify abusive actions. Jesus constantly taught that the Spirit of God is our only true guide in the way we think and behave, for instance when he interpreted the meaning of the 10 Commandments. James says the same in his Epistle. Our generosity and our ability to serve are God’s gifts to us. The way we relate to others in speaking or acting must be guided by God’s Spirit.

Rules and regulations, customs and habits, dress and language are all things which influence us and identify who we are. They must be inspired not by prejudice or selfishness, but God’s Spirit of love and care for others.

Revd Philip Norwood

Bible Readings:

Sunday 1st September 2024

Fourteenth Sunday After Trinity

Deuteronomy 4.1-2, 6-9

New Revised Standard Version, Anglicised

4 So now, Israel, give heed to the statutes and ordinances that I am teaching you to observe, so that you may live to enter and occupy the land that the Lord, the God of your ancestors, is giving you.

2 You must neither add anything to what I command you nor take away anything from it, but keep the commandments of the Lord your God with which I am charging you.

6 You must observe them diligently, for this will show your wisdom and discernment to the peoples, who, when they hear all these statutes, will say, 'Surely this great nation is a wise and discerning people!'

7 For what other great nation has a god so near to it as the Lord our God is whenever we call to him?

8 And what other great nation has statutes and ordinances as just as this entire law that I am setting before you today?

9 But take care and watch yourselves closely, so as neither to forget the things that your eyes have seen nor to let them slip from your mind all the days of your life; make them known to your children and your children's children-

James 1.17-end

New Revised Standard Version, Anglicised

17 Every generous act of giving, with every perfect gift, is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with whom there is no variation or shadow due to change.

18 In fulfilment of his own purpose he gave us birth by the word of truth, so that we would become a kind of first fruits of his creatures.

19 You must understand this, my beloved: let everyone be quick to listen, slow to speak, slow to anger;

20 for your anger does not produce God's righteousness.

21 Therefore rid yourselves of all sordidness and rank growth of wickedness, and welcome with meekness the implanted word that has the power to save your souls.

22 But be doers of the word, and not merely hearers who deceive themselves.

23 For if any are hearers of the word and not doers, they are like those who look at themselves in a mirror;

24 for they look at themselves and, on going away, immediately forget what they were like.

25 But those who look into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and persevere, being not hearers who forget but doers who act-they will be blessed in their doing.

26 If any think they are religious, and do not bridle their tongues but deceive their hearts, their religion is worthless.

27 Religion that is pure and undefiled before God, the Father, is this: to care for orphans and widows in their distress, and to keep oneself unstained by the world.

Mark 7.1-8, 14-15, 21-23

New Revised Standard Version, Anglicised

7 Now when the Pharisees and some of the scribes who had come from Jerusalem gathered around him,

2 they noticed that some of his disciples were eating with defiled hands, that is, without washing them.

3 (For the Pharisees, and all the Jews, do not eat unless they thoroughly wash their hands, thus observing the tradition of the elders;

4 and they do not eat anything from the market unless they wash it; and there are also many other traditions that they observe, the washing of cups, pots, and bronze kettles.)

5 So the Pharisees and the scribes asked him, 'Why do your disciples not live according to the tradition of the elders, but eat with defiled hands?'

6 He said to them, 'Isaiah prophesied rightly about you hypocrites, as it is written, "This people honours me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me;

7 in vain do they worship me, teaching human precepts as doctrines."

8 You abandon the commandment of God and hold to human tradition.'

14 Then he called the crowd again and said to them, 'Listen to me, all of you, and understand:

15 there is nothing outside a person that by going in can defile, but the things that come out are what defile.'

21 For it is from within, from the human heart, that evil intentions come: fornication, theft, murder, 22 adultery, avarice, wickedness, deceit, licentiousness, envy, slander, pride, folly.

23 All these evil things come from within, and they defile a person.'

Collect for Sunday 1st September
Fourteenth Sunday After Trinity

Almighty God,
whose only Son has opened for us
a new and living way into your presence:
give us pure hearts and steadfast wills

who is alive and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
one God, now and for ever.

Amen

Additional Prayer for Making the Most of Creationtide

Creationtide, or the Season of Creation, takes place in the Church calendar from 1 September to 4 October, and is dedicated to God as Creator and Sustainer of all life. Creationtide began in the Orthodox Church in 1989 and has been supported by a growing number of churches across Europe since then, including the Church of England. Many churches use this time of year to hold themed services and events, including Harvest celebrations, giving thanks for God's gift of creation, and renewing their commitment to caring for the planet we call home.

We've compiled a selection of Creationtide resources you might like to make use of in your worshiping communities, including service plans, ideas for community events, and more. See Creation ideas here:

Holy Listening Course at Launde Abbey

Are you interested in helping people deepen their spiritual lives? Could God be calling you to be a spiritual director?

Spiritual direction is the practice of being with people as they attempt to deepen their relationship with God, a prayerful ministry by which one Christian accompanies another as they discern the place and work of God in their life.

Holy Listening is a Launde Abbey training course which will help you develop skills and reflective practice for this ministry. You'll explore core aspects of Christian spirituality, and how we create and hold spaces that enable other people to hear God speaking in their lives.

Launde Abbey is seeking interested applicants to form its cohort for 2025 and 2026. Applications must be submitted by Friday 27 September, with interviews to be held on 14 & 16 October.
